WEEKLY COTTON REVIEW

New York, July 25 .- Quite general but light, rains developed over much of the Southwest on Thursday and Friday of this week, relieving the drought in many parts of Texas and Oklahoma and promoting a selling movement in the local cotton market, which put new crop positions down about $2 per hale. It was considered and Plo Grenda $15,000. Denver and Plo Grenda $15,000 and Colorado movement in the local cotton market, which put new crop positions down about $2 per bale. It was considered doubtful, however, upon careful study of the detailed reports from Texas if the big producing counties of that State had received sufficient moisture to fully restore the crop position after the quarter. State had received sufficient moisture to fully restore the crop position after three weeks of dry, hot weather, and as trade interests proved to be good buyers on the decline, there was a quick upturn near the close to-day, which carried prices up about ten points from the bottom. This left the situation very much unsettled again, and the week ended with traders seriously in doubt about the position of the Texas crop and facing a big short interest in the market, which has been accumulating for the last three days, or ever since it became known that the Southwest was likely to get at the Southwest was likely to get at least some relief from the recent drought. Over the Eastern belt showers prevailed almost the entire week, with a drop in temperature of 10 to for securities. A continuation of these respectively. 20 degrees from the scorching weather noted at the close of last week, and crop accounts from that section were uniformly favorable. uniformly favorable. Activity in old crop months here furnished one of the week's features. Following a sensational break in July at New Orleans early in the week, holders of August contracts at New York became nervous, and finding little probability that Liv-erpool would take up cotton again as it did last month, abandoned their position, and the cotton coming on a market rather bare of buyers resulted in a break of 63 points, or about $3.25 a bale. In this connection it was understood that freight room for some 4,000 bales of the local stock that had been scheduled for shipment to Liver-pool has been cancelled. Among Southern spot markets it was considered significant that weakness appeared in those markets nearest the points of

ACTIVE SESSION

Strength and Activity in Copper and Steel Features of Day.

BY BROADAN WALL.

New York, July 25.—Profit-taking by the professional traders brought fractional recessions to-day after an active session, in which the total transactions ran close to 400,000 shares. Opening prices (ground the bragging) discountered to the programment of the p tions ran close to 400,000 shares. Open-20 2 2 1 138 1134 1135 played in foreign markets, and strength and activity in the copper and steel stocks were the early features.

The improvement in the copper market continues and Amalgamated selling ex the quarterly dividend of 11-2 per cent, recovered the whole and a fraction more before noon. Short covering was again retied in Steel and the execution of a buying order for some 10,000 shares carried the price to 59. New Haven was active, rising four points on the expectation that the directors would announce changes in the management of the property that would insure a more conservative and successful policy in the future.

Union Pacific crossed 150 on the June statement, showing an increase in net earnings that was practically equal to the increase in gross. Lehigh Valley and Reading rose sharply, and Delaware and Hudson advanced five points.

ware and Hudson advanced five points.

The broad undertone of strength has encouraged short covering, some public buying and renewed activity upon the part of the floor trader. The latter following, however, did not help the market, and the reactions that occurred in the afternoon were largely the efforts of these operators to take their profits and retire from the market over the week-end the week-end.

conditions is looked for next week, with a further improvement in prices.

REVIEW OF TRADE

New York, July 25 .- Bradstreets to-Crop news, due to beneficial rains, is more favorable, feeling in the iron and steel markets is better, money does not appear to be so tight, the stock market reflects a rather healthier undertone, favorable weather has helped retail distribution, railway traffic is enlarging, thanks to a big movement of winter wheat, and, on the whole, conservative optimism seems to whole, conservative optimism seems to be spreading. On the other hand, trade with wholesale dealers and jobbers reflects more or less irregularity. Labor is quite well employed, especial-
